THE APPORTIONMENT.

Duty That Certainly Will Be Performed session the coming winter, should not deal with the matter of apportionment, but should delegate that pleasing duty to the succeeding Congress.

In the first place, the House to be are about as follows:

to the succeeding Congress.

In the first place, the House to be elected this fall is by no means likely to contain a Democratic majority; but whether it will or not, the apportion-ment will be made this winter, by the present Congress, for the very sufficient reason that it is the duty of Congress to do this as seen as may be conveniently after the ceases is taken. There is a gretesquerie peculiarly Bourbonish in the position that the Republicans must give the Democrats all the political advantage possible in apportioning Representatives in Congress for the next ten years. History fails to show any in-stance of the kind in Democratic annals,

In point of fact there is no way of get ting any particular advantage through party. reapportionment, if it be honestly and fairly done, as it will be by a Republican Congress. The Democratic anxiety is due to the fact that the census shows that the Republican States have grown more rapidly than the solidly Demo-eratic ones, and that population, progress, wealth and enlightenment show their greatest gains in localities in Republican sentiment is the est. The Bourbons wish to negative the advantage this legitimately gives the Republican party. If possible, by adopting the ratio which will give the most Deniocratic Representatives, and thus perpetuate for another ten years the stendily waning power of the solid South in National politics.

Our Bourbon brethren, however, may set it down as a fact that the present Congress will perform the work of ap-portionment, and that it will very likely be on the lines laid down in the Dunnell bill, now pending in the House. In his two hundred dollar "ruin" speech at La Crosse the next evening. Here the ratio for one Representative; and is the cologistic citizen and the men-we give below a table which shows the

Our Diplomatic Service

For some years past the foreign repre sentation of the United States has been by no means as efficient as it is to-day. The contrast between Mr. Cleveland's Ministers of foreign courts and Mr. Harrison's is painfully unfavorable to the former. Mr. Reid at Paris is a brilliant success, whereas Mr. McLane was a nonentity, both socially and in diplomacy. The present Minister is popular in Paris, is influential with the Government, and is certain to succeed in securing a reversal of the French policy as regards American pork. Mr. William Walter Phelps, in like manner, is a success at Berlin where Mr. Pendleton was a practical failure. The New Jersey statesman has already been able to advance American interests, and he is one of the "somebodies" of the German capital. Colonel Fred Grant, at man capital. Colonel Fred trant, at Vienna, is incomparably superior as a representative of our country to old General Lawton, of Georgia, who drew the salary and lurked in obscurity, under the Cleveland Administration. Mr. Lincoln, at London, is not so much of a holpobler with the aristograpy as of a hobnobber with the aristocracy as the Phelps whom Cleveland appointed to England was, but surely it will not be claimed that he is less successful in conserving American interests. And taking the foreign service throughout, its average is greatly improved,—Minneapolis TribuneA LEVEL HEAD.

The Advantage of Presence of Mind in an Emergency.

During the late strike on the New York Central Raliroad, this militia were ordered to be in readiness in case of a riot, but they were not called out.

In an interview, Gov. Hill said the troops were not to be called upon except in case of an emergency. The emergency had not arisen, therefore they would not be ordered out. He remarked that this was the first great strike with which he had had experience, and he did not propose to lose his head; the only point at which there had been serious trouble was at Syracuses, and there a deputy-sheriff had lost his head and precipitated an encounter.

The strike continued several weeks, and there was riotous action at various points along the road, but the civil authorities were able to cope with it without calling on the militia.

The testof a man's real ability comes when were able to cope with it without calling on the militia.

The test of a man's real ability comes when an emergency arises which makes a hasty call on his good judgment and discretion. The man who retains his presence of mind, maintains his equipoise and exercises sound discretion at such critical junctures, is to be relied en and will be put to the front.

Men with level heads have the staying qualities which do not faiter in the face of danger. Otis A. Cole, of Kinsman, O., June 10, 1800, writes: "In the fall of 1888 I was feeling very ill. I consulted a doctor and he said I had Bright's disease of the kidneys and that he would not stand in my shoes for the state of Ohio." But he did not lose courage or give up; he says: "I saw the testimonial of Mr. John Coleman, 100 Gregory St., New Haven, Conn., and I wrote to him. In due time I received an answer, stating that the testimonial that he gave was genuine and not overdrawn in any particular. I took a good many bottles of Warner's Safe Cure; have not taken any for one year."

'Gov. Hill is accounted a very successful man; he is cool and calculating and belongs to the class that do not lose their heads when emergencies arise.

Insurance Against Disease.

In certain instances there have been arrangements made between a physician and the head of a family that a fixed amount should be paid for each day the various members of the family continued in good health. But should sickness enter the household, the physician's usual strend was discontinued. Such an agreement is founded on common sense, for we don't want to be made well, we want to be kept well. There is a great deal of unnecessary sickness resulting from a want of careful attention to bodily requirements. Keep the blood pure, keep the functional habits of the body regular, counteract the effects of exposure by always having a britis of Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla in the household and using it in anticipation of an attack of illness or when the very first symptoms are manifest. Disease will not crouble you if you will heed this good advice. It is an excellent preventive of disease and decay, as well as astocure.—Marion Banner. Insurance Against Disease.

A casar mistake perhaps was made when Dr. Sherman named his great remedy Prickly Ash Birtens; but it is presumed that at that time all remedies for the blood, etc. were called Bitters. Had he called it Prickly Ash "Regulator," "Curative," or almost anything but Buters, it undoubtedly would have superseded all other preparations of similar character.
